On behalf of INTERTANKO, I would like to welcome you to the Tokyo Tanker Event 2009.

We have arranged an outstanding programme, with an array of high level speakers, focussing on providing the latest information, sharing experiences and opening discussions on how to deal with rapidly changing economic and shipping markets.

Setting the scene will be the Oil and Tanker Market session, where the latest developments in the currently ever changing markets are presented and discussed.

Following are a number of tanker issues sessions: Tanker Emissions Efficiency – Obligations and Options; Poseidon Challenge – Lessons learned from Quality Improvement; Human Element – The Human Side of Piracy & Recruitment in the Tanker Sector, all covering issues that are of greatest concern to our members and on top of our industry’s agenda.

We are also very pleased that INTERTANKO’s Associate Members’ Committee (AMC) has taken the lead to develop a session on Effective Risk Management – aimed at sharing identified problem areas and possible responses and tools to deal with them and relating how these could assist shipowners in the challenging times ahead.

The 2009 Poseidon Challenge meeting will bring a new-look session, focussing on giving examples of continuous improvement and demonstrating how companies promote these as a culture. Furthermore, also showing where the challenges of the future are for the industry and what we need to do to address them.

A special thank you goes out to our members in Japan and the entire Japanese Maritime Community who have assisted us greatly in making this event a success.

Lastly, I would like to thank our sponsors and exhibitors for their generous support, and our members, associate members and other delegates for their valuable participation.

I hope you enjoy your time in Tokyo and I look forward to meeting you during the coming days.

Thursday 14 May 2009

Edo Tokyo Museum
The Edo-Tokyo Museum was founded in 1993, as the place where visitors come to learn more about Tokyo’s history and culture, and which provides an insight into the city and contemporary life of Tokyo.

Senso-ji
Tokyo’s oldest temple, the Senso-ji Temple, was founded in AD 628 to enshrine a gold statuette of the Kannon Bodhisattva (the Goddess of Mercy) which, according to legend, was found by two local fishermen. The temple is also known as Asakusa Kannon in Japan.

Hama-Rikyu
Hama-Rikyu Onshi-teien is a Tokyo municipal park located at the mouth of the Sumida-gawa River in Chuo-ku. It is called “Hama-Rikyu” for short. The landscape garden park is surrounded by a seawater moat filled by Tokyo Bay, and includes a lovely pond called Shiori-no-ike.

Friday 15 May 2009

Meiji Shrine
Meiji Shrine (Meiji Jingu) is a shrine dedicated to the deified spirits of Emperor Meiji – the first emperor of modern Japan – and his consort, Empress Shoken.

Ukiyoe Museum
This art museum specializes in Ukiyo-e woodblock prints. There are about 12,000 Ukiyo-e prints in the collection, which includes some of the most famous works and is extremely well-preserved.

Imperial palace
The Imperial Palace Tokyo is the home of the Emperor of Japan (the Japanese head of state). The actual Imperial Palace building was part of the Edo Castle. The palace is surrounded by a water-filled moat and tree-covered grounds – a precious taste of nature within the bustling metropolitan city.
